United Entertainment Company to Furnish Street Amusement

LIEUTENANT EMERY OF BRADFORD IS TO PROVIDE AERIAL THRILLS. FREE OX-ROAST FOR EX-SERVICE MEN IN UNIFORM. REGIMENTAL BAND WILL FURNISH MUSIC.

It "it pays to advertise," there is reason to believe in the realization of the Bucktails' hope for a record-breaking attendance at their great convention here on Wednesday and Thursday, the 18th and 19th of this month. During the past week flying squads of workers in cars have plastered the main roads and the towns not only of this county, but also of the neighboring counties—Warren, Elk Potter. In all about 1,200 small bills, the size of this sheet, have gone up together with 50 handsome lithographs of more impressive size.

The free ox-roast is to ex-service men in uniform is now an assured success. After a hunt covering weeks Dr. W. A. Ostrander, the Post Commander, who was put in full charge of this important feature of the program, has located the man who will undertake the job of feeding the hundreds of hungry ex-service men. Mr. Hovey of Custer City will be on the job with his son-in-law four days ahead of time and will superintend personally the whole affair, starting with the butchering. A place not too far from the center of town will be selected as the site and water and gas will be provided to the caterer.

Two handsome silver loving cups are being ordered for presentation to winning Posts of the county, one for the track meet and one for attendance. Both cups will be temporary trophies and will be defended by the winner of each annual convention until one Post shall have won three consecutive years. It will be remembered that the track meet is scheduled for Thursday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, and will undoubtedly be one of the most interesting events of the convention. Last week the Bradford Post, just to prove that they were sports of the first water, decided to enter a team which they believe will carry off the cup. Reports from Kane, Port Allegany and our own Bucktails would show a considerable difference of opinion on this point. The attendance cup will be given to the Post which shows the highest percentage of members present during the two days of the convention, as will be shown by registration at headquarters. These cups are being given by the Hamlin Bank and the Grange National Bank.

The response from householders about town in answer to the local post's request for aid in the matter of supplying accommodations for the visitors Wednesday night is fully what was expected. It simply goes to show that Smethport has never yet fallen down on any proposition. Dr. Ostrander has already on file the names of sufficient citizens to take care of a number of ex-soldiers, but it is known that the complete number is not yet in, and it is hoped that those who are contemplating such action will immediately get in touch with him.

The campaign to bring the 16th Regimental Band here is still being hotly fought. Letters have been written by the Post, backed up with others every person who may directly or indirectly further this scheme. Wires are also being operated at the Mount Gretna encampment where the band is now stationed with this one end in view; the committee in charge refuses to consider anything but an affirmative answer to their request.

Last Tuesday evening a car of boosters attended a meeting of the Bradford Post and learned that the members of the Legion there are planning on attending the convention in a body by automobile. It looks as if the Bradford crowd had already measured their self for that attendance cup for a year.

Lieutenant Emery of Bradford is to provide aerial thrills. He will be in attendance both days of the celebration and will do both plain and fancy flying. An arrangement has been made with the finance committee in accordance with which the Post will share in money taken in from those who will want aeroplane flights. Tickets are already on sale and may be procured from members of the Legion.

Perhaps one matter should be cleared up once for all. This convention is for all ex-service men, regardless of the fact whether they are or are not members of any Post of the American Legion or any other organization of ex-service men. This question has arisen a number of times in communities where the former soldiers

COLLEGE STAR WILL BE SEEN IN ACTION

Smethport Stars Will Be Seen At This Track Meet.

It is doubtful whether many citizens of the town have ever had the opportunity which will be theirs on next Thursday, if seeing some real stars perform in track and field events, when four American Legion Posts of the county meet at the Fair Grounds in connection with their convention.

Kane will enter Nicholas, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in 1916, and a 'varsity letter man in the high jump and hurdles.

Smethport will have Paul Denning in the dashes, R. Hull in the pole vault, and R. McCarthy in the shot put. All of these have been seen in action and their ability is known. Another home boy with a record, who will represent the Bucktails is H. Workley, who last year was a star of the Pitt. Freshman track team in the jump and hurdles. In addition to these are Dr. A. R. Livermore and Captain Gallagher of the base ball team. The former still holds the Tri-State Intercollegiate championship in the 2-mile, made while on Pitts. 'varsity. He will run the mile for Smethport. Gallagher made his reputation at St. Bonaventure, where he captured honors in the dashes.

The events of the meet will be 10 in number, including 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, quarter-mile, mile, half-mile relay, hurdles, high jump, broad jump, shot put, and pole vault. Competent judges have been appointed. A nominal charge, just about sufficient to defray expenses, will be made.

FISHER AND COMPANY

FISHER AND CO., CONSIST OF A LADY AND GENTLEMAN WHO PROVIDE A HIGH-CLASS BICYCLE PERFORMANCE WHICH IS DIFFERENT FROM ANY OTHER OF ITS KIND.—SEPTEMBER 14, 15, 16, AND 17.

LARGEST CROWD OF THE SEASON AT SUNDAY GAME

The Game was Played for the Benefit of American Legion, and Receipts Amounting to Over $200.

The best that can be said for Sunday's base ball game is that it was a money-maker for the Bucktail Post of the American Legion, under whose auspices the game was held. Probably the biggest crowd of the season after nine innings of the most lurid baseball imaginable saw Port Allegany's band of maulers emerge from a 16-11 victory over the local forces.

For six innings it really looked like a ball game. The hitting was moderate, but a sparkling of errors on both sides permitted considerable scoring. When the seventh opened, Smethport lead with the score standing 6-5; for 25 minutes Port Allegany let loose their fireworks, during which time they annexed eight runs and sent Hull and Clark, who relieved him for a short time, from the mound after horrible experiences. Captain Gallagher gave up his position at third to fill in the gap at pitcher and finally succeeded in calming things down.

It was another case of errors—if it weren't a "bromide" by this time, we might call the game a Comedy of Errors. There were a few flashes of good playing, as for instance, when Gallagher stabbed a swift bounder back of third and nailed his man at first, but one was apt to forget these rare treats in view of the far greater number of misplays. By no means were the errors confined to the local players—the visitors were also unexpectedly generous occasionally with bunkles that usually figured in the scoring.

Port Allegany imported help from Emporium and Olean to supply the hurling and then came over about 200-strong to help along the good cause. Their tactics were of the best as may be ascertained from any one in attendance. Things went along quite nicely for Smethport until that fatal seventh, but before it had dragged itself away, strong men were seen to weep, babes in arms betrayed unsuspected and precocious knowledge of wicked language, the most carefree Smethport rooter aged perceptibly—and Port Allegany scored eight runs.

Perhaps the best course is to try to forget and to hope that when the two teams again meet during the convention of ex-service men next week, the locals will redeem themselves handsomely.

RAIN BROKE UP FAST GAME HERE LAST SATURDAY

Richart, Who Resides in New York City and a Star Was With the Wellsville Players

Rain interfered Saturday with the meet which was to decide the tennis supremacy between Wellsville, N. Y., and the local players. But two of the four matches were completed and a third was but little better than half through when play was necessarily stopped. As we go to press, the Smethport players are at it again with their opponents, but this time at the country club at Wellsville, and there, it is hoped, the question of superiority may be settled.

The Wellsville team brought along a real star in Richart, who resides in New York city but happened to be visiting in Wellsville. It is said that this gentleman with his partner are champions of Long Island in doubles and certainly his form would give ample testimony of such a record. He is undoubtedly about the best player seen here in many years.

Before rain brought a halt to the proceedings, the visitors had won both singles matches; in the doubles two sets in the first match had been played and these were divided between the two teams, thus making necessary the third set. The local players were confident, however, of winning out in the doubles in both matches, in as much as this game receives far more attention here than the singles.

Quite a number of spectators were on hand to watch the play, showing more of an interest and an understanding of the game than was suspected. Further treats are planned for them when teams from other neighboring towns visit here.

The visiting party of four players and eight spectators were entertained at luncheon by S. F. Redfield in his home, and at dinner at Diegel Hollow.

ST. MARYS K. OF C. TO MEET SMETHPORT NEXT SUNDAY

The manager of the Smethport base ball team informed this office today that on next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the Fair Grounds, the St. Marys K. of C. base ball team would play the local boys. The manager said that this team was defeated on their own grounds a few days ago, and with the new players that have signed up with Smethport team, he feels confident that his team will give them a thrashing—come out and see the new players work out.

Fair Association Offers Best Free Attractions Sept. 14-17 in History

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK IS BEING PUT IN THE BEST CONDITION FOR FAST RACES—MR. HYDE IS IN CHARGE OF THE WORK.

Three great acts have been booked as free entertainments for the sixteenth annual McKean County Fair here September 14, 15, 16 and 17. Last week Hon. R. W. Hilton, president of the Fair Association, was in New York and personally chose these three acts from the large number offered him as the best obtainable. They will daily perform on the large platform in front of the grandstand. In addition the management has arranged with Lieut. W. H. Emery, Jr., of Bradford to make aeroplane flights each day.

Possibly the most famous of the three acts is that known as the Three Raymonds. During all of the past season this act was with Ringling Brothers' circus, and at various times has appeared in vaudeville for winter seasons with the Keith, Proctor and Orpheum circuits. The booking agency claims for them a reputation as one of the best headline vaudeville attractions in the country. A feature of one of the acts they show is the use of a silver wire which is held in the mouths of two of the performers while the third performs in the center.

Fisher and Co., consist of a lady and gentleman who provide a high-class bicycle performance which is different from any other of its kind and combines some of the cleverest tricks in bicycle riding with a line of up-to-date comedy.

The third act is supplied by Harry Wheadon who puts on a novelty slack wire act. Among the feats which he will perform are ascending a Roman ladder, balancing chairs, wheels and tubs, hoop juggling, knife and plate spinning, and some clever work with Indian clubs. His performance is described as snappy and meritorious in every way.

The fair is but four weeks away and already considerable work has been done on the grounds to get them ready. Mr. Hyde, who is in charge of the work, has the track in fine condition. The buildings are rapidly being put into first-class shape for the exhibits. The horse barn is being built over into a cattle barn so that these exhibits will not be under tents as in the past.

Next week the management will begin to sign up the strings of horses for the races; all of the nearby, and some distant, fairs will be visited in the expectation of interesting horse owners in the really worth-while events here. Other representatives are at different places securing midway attractions. In fact every indication points to the best fair ever.

BELLEFONTE MAN SIGNALLY HONORED

W. Harrison Walker Named As Assistant to the Director.

W. Harrison Walker of Bellefonte, who has been prominently identified with the Savings Division of the Third Federal Reserve District since its inception in 1917, has been promoted to the position of assistant to the director in charge of County Activities of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, which comprises forty-eight counties and covers nearly the entire state. This promotion comes to Mr. Walker through Mr. George E. Lloyd, director of the Savings Division of the Third Federal Reserve District, who in a letter under date of July 31st, states that Mr. Walker is expected to assume the responsibility of his new position at once.

This is a tribute to Mr. Walker that is well deserved: When the war started he was made Chairman of the Centre County War Savings Committee. On account of his activities and evident business ability he was assigned three other counties, and soon after, in rapid succession, to twelve, then to fifteen, and finally to 24 counties, in which position he won the distinction of having his district, known as Group 3, stand first among all other districts in the United States—it having a per capita of 63 cents—which is recognized by the Treasury Department at Washington as the highest in the United States—the average being 30 cents. This acquirement attracted the attention of the workers in the Thrift and Savings movement over the entire country; nd he has been summoned from all parts of the Third Federal Reserve District to outline, for local use, the plans of his campaign to the end that district managers might profit by them. This last distinction accorded him is but a recognition of real merit, attained by hard and persistent work and pronounced executively ability.

W. C. T. U. WAS ROYALLY ENTERTAINED TUESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 3

Mrs. Lillibridge and Mrs. Miller entertained the W. C. T. U. and invited guests at a picnic supper on their lawn Tuesday evening, August 3. After supper the members of the union held their business meeting and annual election of officers, the following being elected: President, Mrs. Dela Spanogle; vice president, Mrs. Millie Iddings; recording secretary, Mrs. Lulu Lillibridge; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Orme McCarthy; treasurer, Mrs. Flora Freeman.

The guests spent the evening visiting and the children were entertained with games, etc. All members are requested to pay dues for the coming year ($1.00) to Mrs. Minnie Aellis before the 15th of this month.

The county convention will be held at the home of Mrs. Looker of Rixford, August 26th and 27th. State president, Mrs. Ella M. George will be present.

Every member who can should attend this convention.

Hawaiian women are political enthusiasts. They are taking a keener interest in politics than American women in the islands, according to Mrs. Wilhelmine Dowsett, vice chairman of the Republican Ways and Means Committee in Honolulu.

Happily Met.

In a speech singularly felicitous in phrasing and of a diction dignified as the occasion, Governor Morrow carried to Governor Coolidge the official news of the duties and responsibilities with which it had pleased the Chicago convention spontaneously to honor him. The solemnity of the occasion, the conviction that this was in good sooth a ceremony of consecration, seem to have been felt by both; they give a glow to their periods such as, even at this distance, makes itself known and felt.—Louisville, (Ky.) Herald.

Harding Fills Bill.

Senator Harding is a man with a clear head and moderate views, liberal and genial in his intercourse with people and enjoys the full confidence of all those who come in contact with him. His experience in Washington as lawmaker places him in the same rank with two of his predecessors—both of whom were also Ohioans—Benjamin Harrison and William McKinley, who had less difficulty with Congress than any of the other Presidents of recent times. A man who has himself spent years in Congress knows how to get along with the legislative branch and to respect its rights and prerogatives. A President like Mr. Harding would have acted at the end of the World War as President McKinley acted after the Spanish War; he would have had a few prominent senators as members of the peace commission and a treaty which they would bring back, would have been ratified by the Senate within a few weeks.

The country has had enough of the inflexibility or the obstinacy which President Wilson has showed in his relations with the Senate, and has, on the other hand, had more than enough of the weakness which he has shown when he came to Europe to take the teeth out of his fourteen points. The whole world is tired out and starved and needs nothing so much as peace, quiet and confidence in internal as well as external matters; she needs to recuperate through the only means possible to save her—work and credit. Order must be restored in the United States. —New York Der Amerikaner.

Well, Cox took a look at the White House, anyway, and that's as close to it as he ever will get.—Douglas (Ariz.) Dispiach.

"Billy" Sunday thinks Senator Harding is "dry enough," but the Senator's speeches certainly aren't dry.—Concord (N. H.) Monitor.

"The best patriotic thought of America is opposed to the proposed Wilsonian entangling alliance," declares Representative Charles C. Kearnes, of Ohio, "that would forever take away from nations the right to mind their own business. Through a reckless and ambitious leadership America has drifted far afield during the year just past. Persuaded by the false allurements of a union of governments, national rights and independence would be bartered and frittered away forever. The price is more than the patriotism of America would be willing to pay. My belief is that when the people of this country realize the hypocrisy and deceit contained in the unreserved covenant of this proposed alliance they will speak in unmistagable fashion. It is an attempt to pull down the Stare and Stripes and unfurl instead the flag of internationalism.

* * * * * *

A main objective of the Harding-Coolidge ticket is the restoration of American cooperative government on the American constitutional plan.

There is every indication that the country is very tired of one man rule or autocracy on the old European plan.

There was some amusement over the contrast between Mr. Wilson's resounding preachment about making the world safe for democrtcy, and his autocratic practices at home, as illustrated in his repeated ignoring of the Constitutional powers of the Senate, his attempted dictation of the congressional election of 1918 and of the defeat of Mr. Lenroot in the senatorial special election, his lordly cashiering of Secretary Lansing as a mutineer whose mind did not "go willingly along with mine," and other instances too numerous to mention.

So the indications are that the country is so fed up on one man rule that it will register a strong protest against it by voting Mr. Wilson's party out of power in November—the memory of one man rule is not the least of the Wilsonian liabilities which Mr. Cox must inherit in the campaign.—Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel.

Served With Harding.

"Senator Harding is more like McKinley than any man I know," declares Martin Dodge, who was United States Commissioner of Public Roads under the administration of President McKinley, and who served in the State Senate of Ohio with Senator Harding. "I was serving my last term as Senator from the Cleveland district, when Harding entered public life as a State Senator from the Marion district in 1900. Our seats in the Senate chamber were side by side, and I had an excellent opportunity to see and hear him every day during the session. He impressed me then, as he now seems to impress everybody, with the fact that he is level-headed and patriotic, and that he is more nearly like McKinley than any other man we know. We have heard much in late years about the desirability of returning to democratic simplicity. But in the case of Senator Harding he never departed from that democratic simplicty to which so many are longing to return."

CHURCH DIGNITAR'ES ADVOCATE THRIFT AS DUTY

Messages From Cardinals Gibbons and O'Connell.

TO SAVE FOR LEAN YEARS

The prosperity the country is now enjoying should not be dissipated in extravagant living, but conserved for solid future benefits, and to enable us to "continue to play the Good Samaritan to the suffering people in Europe."

This is the opinion of Cardinal James Gibbons, of Baltimore, given in a letter to the Savings Division of the Treasury Department, commending the continuation of the Treasury Savings Movement during 1920. In a similar letter, Cardinal William O'Connell, of Boston, says:

"I shall be very glad to co-operate, in so far as lies within my power, with the Savings Division of the Treasury Department in checking the tendency toward extravagance and financial carelessness and in encouraging consistent saving."

Cardinal Gibbon's letter follows: "Every American citizen should realize that the problems arising from the war are individual problems, and can best be solved by careful, frugal living and a curtailing of unnecessary expense. The prosperity that has come to us is not ours to be spent lavishly and without regard to consequences, but is to be increased by consistent saving, thoughtful investment and wise use. In no other way can we seize the opportunity that is presented us, and thus while increasing our own resources, continue to play the Good Samaritan to the suffering people in Europe."

In commenting on the fine spirit of co-operation of the American prelates, William Mather Lewis, National Savings Director, stated that it should not require another Joseph to point out to us that the savings for the lean years should be piled up during the years of plenty which we are now experiencing.

The government in continuing the sale of Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates has made a safe and easy way of increasing savings, available to every school child, to every man and woman who is a patron of a postoffice or a bank.

"This country, as well as the nations of Europe should pay careful heed to Clemenceau's dictum, 'We must work more and talk less.' We should particularly be willing to weigh the words of our leaders who are unanimous in assuring us that to prevent disaster we must 'Work and Save.'"

WHAT THE THRIFT-SAVINGS MOVEMENT MEANS

Opportunity to Save and Invest Small Sums in Profitable and Safe Government Securities.

Have you ever stopped to think what the Thrift-Savings Movement really means, or is it still confused in your mind with war days and with drives of war-days? Briefly defined, the Thrift-Saving Movement of the United States Government is an opportunity given the people to commence to want to save, to commence to save, and to make it possible and easy for them to save.

The government is looking ahead and it has looked behind, too. In looking behind, it has taken note of the fact that very few people, comparatively speaking, have managed their affairs so that poverty in old age would not be their lot. The main reason for this is that so few people, still speaking in a comparative sense, have learned that Thrift is the good management of the business of living. Have you realized that fifty-four people out of every hundred are not self-supporting at sixty-five years of age? They have failed to save in their producing days. Or in the language of the street, they did not save "while the saving was good." In looking ahead, the government sees that more and more people will be "down-and-outers" if they do not save for themselves; it wants its people to become prosperous, financially comfortable and happy.

It is to help people save, to make it possible for them to save safely and to make it possible for the "little fellow" especially to get ahead, that the government is conducting the Thrift-Savings Campaign and making 25-cent Thrift Stamps, $5.00 Savings Stamps, $100 Registered Treasury Certificates, and $1000 Registered Treasury Certificates available to the public at postoffices and banks.

The government wants its people to save for themselves and to save systematically because it is the proper thing to do. Any thinking man or woman can readily see that the happy person and the happy home are those which are comfortably prosperous and which are not forever in the dark shadow thrown by the wolf scratching at the door.

In a multitude of thrift there is safety from worry. But wisely, save intelligently and invest in Thrift and Savings Stamps.

EUROPE CAN ESCAPE COLLAPSE

We Must Aid by Extending Credits, Says Davison.

GRAVE MENACE TO U. S. A.

European Ruin Would Involve America—Starvation and Disease Rampant.

Des Moines, Ia.—Speaking before the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, said:

As chairman of the Convention of Red Cross Societies, composed of representatives of twenty-seven nations that met recently in Geneva, I am custodian of authoritative reports recording appalling conditions among millions of people living in eastern Europe.

One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of the human race is being enacted within the broad belt of territory lying between the Baltic and the Black and Adriatic Seas.

This area includes the new Baltic States—Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, the Ukraine, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Montenegro, Albania and Serbia.

The reports which come to us make it clear that in these war-ravaged lands civilization has broken down. Disease, bereavement and suffering are present in practically every household, while food and clothing are insufficient to make life tolerable.

Men, women and children are dying by thousands, and over vast once-civilized areas there are to be found neither medicinal appliances nor medical skill sufficient to cope with the devastating plagues.

Wholesale starvation is threatened in Poland this summer unless she can procure food supplies in large quantities. There are now approximately 250,000 cases of typhus in Poland and in the area occupied by Polish troops.

Worst Typhus Epidemic in History.

This is already one of the worst typhus epidemics in the world's history. In Galicia whole towns are crippled and business suspended. In some districts there is but one doctor to each 150,000 people.

In the Ukraine, we were told, typhus and influenza have affected most of the population.

A report from Vienna, dated February 12, said: "There are rations for three weeks. Death stalks through the streets of Vienna and takes unhindered toll.

Budapest, according to our information, is one vast city of misery and suffering. The number of deaths is double that of births. Of the 160,000 children in the schools, 100,000 are dependent on public charity. There are 150,000 workers idle.

Typhus and smallpox have invaded the four countries composing Czecho-Slovakia, and there is lack of medicines, soap and physicians.

In Serbia typhus has broken out again and there are but 200 physicians to minister to the needs of that entire country.

In Montenegro, where food is running short, there are but five physicians for a population of 450,000.

America Overflowing With Riches.

Returning to the United States a few weeks ago with all these horrors ringing in my ears, I found myself once more in a land whose granaries were overflowing, where health and plenty abounded and where life and activity and eager enterprise were in the full flood.

I asked myself: "What if this plague and famine were here in the great territory between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi valley, which roughly parallels the extent of these ravaged countries and that 65,000,000 of our own people condemned to idleness by lack of raw material and whose fields had been devastated by invasion and rapine were racked by starvation and pestilence and if we had lifted up our voices and invoked the attention of our brothers in happier Europe to our own deep miseries and our cries had fallen on deaf ears would we not in our despair exclaim against their heartlessness!"

Only Three Ways to Help Europe.

There are only three ways by which these stricken lands can secure supplies from the outside world. One is by payment, one by credit, and the third is by exchange of commodities. If these peoples tried to buy materials and supplies in America at the present market value of their currencies Austria would have to pay forty times the original cost, Germany thirteen times, Greece just double, Czecho-Slovakia fourteen times and Poland fifty times. These figures are official and are a true index of the economic plight of these countries.

It is clear, therefore, that they can not give us gold for the things they must have. t[hey] have they either products or sec[urities] to offer in return for credit. If [they] could obtain raw material w[ith] [these] idle millions of theirs can[be] [con]verted into manufactured products t[hey] [co]uld have something to tender the [world] in return for its raw material, [its] food and medicine. But if they have [neither] money nor credit how are [they] to take this first great step to[ward] [rec]uperation?

One [can] [only] foresee that while [many] [mil]lions will die long [before] [we] have the pleasure of typhus [and] [oth]er [dis]ease bring a hideous death to all in [Poland] and Poland and the Ukraine, [and] [spr]eading along the fringes of Germany, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia will confine itself [to] these remote lands?

Only [to]day our health commissioner of New York, Dr. Co[pe]land, sailed for the other side just to [as]sure the danger and take precautions against such an invasion.

This is one menace at our threshold. The other, more threatening, more terrible, is the menace of the world's ill will. We can afford to die, but to be despised forever as a greedy and pharisaical nation is a fate that we must not incur.

The French government has many serious problems to solve, but the French peasant is working and the French artisan, while still sadly in need of raw materials, has not lost his habit of industry and thrift. The most encouraging fact about France today is that her people are alive to the seriousness of France's problem, and they are going forward bravely to solve that problem.

Italy, despite her great shortage of raw material, is looking forward and not backward. Italy can be relied upon to do her part!

England is meeting the problems of reconstruction just as those who knew her past should have expected her to meet them.

Plan to Aid Central Europe.

It is not for me perhaps to give in detail a formula for solution of the world's ills, but as I have been asked many times, "What would you do?" I am glad to give my own answer.

Accordingly, I would ask:

1. That Congress immediately pass a bill appropriating a sum not to exceed $500,000,000 for the use of Central and Eastern Europe.

2. That Congress call upon the President to appoint a nonpolitical commission of three Americans, distinguished for their character and executive ability and commanding the respect of the American people. Such a commission should include men of the type of General Pershing, Mr. Hoover or ex-Secretary Lane. I would invest that commission with complete power.

3. I would have the commission instructed to proceed at once, accompanied by proper personnel, to survey conditions in Central and Eastern Europe and then act for the restoration of those countries under such conditions and upon such terms as the commission itself may decide to be practicable and effective. Among the conditions should be provided that there should be no local interference with the free and untrammeled exercise by the commission of its own prerogative of allocating materials. Governmental politics should be eliminated; unreasonable and prejudicial barriers between the various countries should be removed, and such substantial guarantees as may be available should be exacted in order that the conditions imposed should be fulfilled.

4. As to financial terms, I should make them liberal. I would charge no interest for the first three years; for the next three years, 2 per cent, with provision that such interest might be funded if the economic conditions of the country were not approaching normal, or if its exchange conditions were so adverse as to make payment unduly burdensome. I should make the maturity of the obligation 15 years from its date, and I should have no doubt as to its final payment.

5. Immediately the plan was adopted I would have our government invite other governments in a position to assist, to participate in the undertaking.

6. To set forth completely my opinion, I should add that in the final instructions the American people, through their government, should say to the commission:

"We want you to go and do this job in such a manner as, after study, you think it should be done. This is no ordinary undertaking. The American people trust you to see that it is done right."

I would also say to the commission: "Use so much of this money as is needed." Personally, I am confident that with the assistance and co-operation which would come from other parts of the world the sum of $500,000,000 from the United States would be more than enough to start these countries on their way to self support and the restoration of normal conditions.

The whole plan, of course, involves many practical considerations, the most serious of which is that of obtaining the money, whether by issuing additional Liberty bonds, an increase in the floating debt or by taxation. But I think we could properly say to the treasury department:

"We know how serious your financial problems are; we know the difficulties which are immediately confronting you; we know the importance of deflation, and we know that the government must economize and that individuals must economize, but we also know that the American government advanced $10,000,000,000 to its allies to attain victory and peace. Certainly it is worth making the additional advance in order to realize the peace for which we have already struggled, for nothing is more certain than that until normal conditions are restored in Europe there can be no peace."

Above all things, I would say that whatever action is taken should be taken immediately. The crisis is so acute that the situation does not admit of delay, except with the possibility of consequences one hardly dares contemplate.

The situation that I have spread out here is far beyond the scope of individual charity. Only by the action of governments, our own and the others whose resources enable them to co-operate, can aid be given in sufficient volume. I am also confident that our action would be followed by the governments of Great Britain, of Holland, of the Scandinavian countries, of Spain and Japan, and that France and Belgium and Italy, notwithstanding all of their losses, would help to the best of their ability.

TREASURE OF PIRATE GOLD

Remarkable Collection That Is Displayed in Museum of the University of Pennsylvania.

The largest collection of the gold work of the Aztecs, the Incas and other ancient Central American gold workers, whose civilization was destroyed by the buccaneers seeking the metal, is on permanent display at the museum of the University of Pennsylvania. The collection contains $5,000,000 worth of pirate gold, some of which has never been melted down because of its exquisite workmanship.

Part of the ancient collection had been buried in the mountains of Colombia by the Indians to save the treasure from invaders. This part was purchased by the museum of the University of Pennsylvania just after it had been brought to New York by its discoverers. The other part is composed of heirlooms handed down to a French family descended from some branch of early Spanish royalty, who got the pieces from shipments sent home, perhaps by Cortez and his followers. The latter part was picked up in Paris recently by Dr. George Byron Gorton, director of the university museum.

The Colombian part of the collection contains nearly 100 pieces, from breast-plates to bells, bracelets, girdles, earrings and even golden staples, and a helmet of pure gold. The Paris collection of 84 pieces contains two pure gold idols nine inches high and three inches wide at the shoulders. The Incas collection also contains a death mask of thin, beaten gold.

PURPOSE IN SELF-TORTURE

People of Northern New Mexico Have High Object in Infliction of Bodily Punishment.

A passion play takes place yearly in the Raton and Sandia mountains of northern New Mexico. A group of people living in this district have for centuries each Lenten season gone through a series of self-inflicted bodily tortures, enduring their agonies in the belief that these barbarities will absolve them from past and future sins. The passion play is said to be so savagely realistic that at times performers have died as a result of injuries received while taking part in it.

These people are known as Los Hermanos Penitentes, or the Penitent brotherhood. The Penitentes are of Mexican origin, with a marked strain of Indian blood. They are densely ignorant, not many being able to read Spanish, and only a very few are familiar with English. Hardly one in ten has ever been a hundred miles away from the isolated mountain settlements where they make their homes. They keep small flocks of cattle and sheep and sometimes mine for gold and silver. They live in mud and crude stone houses, as did their ancestors two and three hundred years ago.

Door Mats Grown in America.

Growing of door mats has been carried out for some time in certain parts of America, the only articles required being some pieces of old sacking, or any similar material, and common grass seed, says Detroit News. The sacking is cut to the desired size and shape and then moistened with water and placed on level soil. Grass seed is then sowed rather thickly over the surface of the sacking, the whole covered with paper so as to shade it from the strong sun and keep it protected for about a week, at the end of which time the seed will have germinated. The cover is then removed. Every three or four days the mat is moved to a fresh position to prevent the roots fastening themselves to the soil beneath. After a week or ten days, when the mat has dried and the grass turned a nice shade of green, the mat is ready for use. The little grass plants hold on to the canvas most tenaciously, even when they are dead, this being due to the fact that the root hairs become entangled in the rough hairs of the sacking and are extremely difficult to remove.

Nature's Natural Processes.

We are living on a globe we call solid, but in fact it is plastic and changeable, with a gaseous ocean above us and a liquid one below it. From these three factors all organic life is created, and upon them it depends for its existence. Vegetable life derives its life and body from certain chemical combinations, induced by the action of the sun's radiations. Animal life depends on vegetable life, and also serves other animals as food. All these return to mother earth and thus pay the debt they borrowed. From this we learn that what is death and destruction of one is life of another. Wherefore what we call waste and destruction is only a necessary and unavoidable process of the living functions of mother earth.—Exchange.

Remarkable Transformation.

John had been with his father on the occasion of his maiden effort with a car. Waiting for friends, in another car, before starting on a pleasure trip, an inadvertent turn too far to the side of the road had resulted in being nicely caught in about a foot of fine sticky mud. The friends arriving had made merry over the task of pushing out the car. John, later in the day, excitedly describing the affair, had this, among other things, to say: "And then they turned all the ladies into men, and they all helped to just push the car right out of the sticky mud."

Seashore and Mountain.

I have lived by the seashore and by the mountains. No, I am not going to say which is best. The one where your place is is the best for you. But this difference there is: You can domesticate mountains, but the sea is "ferae naturae." You may have a hut, or know the owner of one, on the mountain side; you see a light halfway up its ascent in the evening, and you know there is a home, and you might share it. You have noted certain trees, perhaps; you know the particular zone where the hemlocks look so black in October, when the maples and beeches have faded. All its reliefs and intaglios have electrotyped themselves in the medallions that hang round the walls of your memory's chamber. The sea remembers nothing.—Holmes.

Controlling Crows.

Various methods have been tried to keep crows away from poultry, most of which were ineffectual. One farmer tried five different methods. The first was a scarecrow, but this had little or no effect. In the second place corn soaked in strychnine solution was scattered on a field of planted corn, but no dead ones were found. No corn was pulled and there was no appreciable decrease in the number of chickens taken. Third, a steel trap was set on a pole near the chicken yard, without success. Fourth, white twine was run on the stakes around and across the chicken yard; this kept the crows from the yard, but the young chicks would get out and would then fall a prey to the crows. Finally a crow was shot and hung on a pole near the chicken yard, after which there was no further trouble.

Human Body Needs Light.

Slum dwellers, who live in narrow and crowded streets, are pale and undersized. Improper nutrition has a good deal to do with it, but that is only one cause. All efforts to improve the condition of the poor in cities by giving them fresh air and cleaner quarters are in the direction of giving them more light.

Any physician will tell you that exercise in the open air is vastly more beneficial than any obtainable in a gymnasium. The chief reason why is that when you are playing tennis or golf, or riding a horse or a bicycle, or amusing yourself otherwise out of doors, you are getting the benefit of unlimited light.

X-Ray Boon to Humanity.

"It is through the infinitely little," Victor Hugo once wrote, "that the infinitely great overwhelms us." That thought comes back with the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the X-ray, discovered during the spring and summer of 1895 by William Roentgen, a professor of physics. His achievement disclosed an emanation which could be used in physical investigations with searching power; it furnished a means by which "shadow" pictures could be taken of the interiors of opaque objects and proved of priceless value to surgeons by enabling them to locate obstructions and abnormalities in the human body.

LETTER TO THE TRADE

Public sentiment is considerably affected by the rumors of approaching declines in commodity prices, so much so in fact that we feel it advisable to make a plain statement of facts regarding this situation so far as Goodrich Tires are concerned.

Due to present high costs of fabric, labor and other elements entering into tire production costs, with no evidence of any lowering of these costs, there can be no possible justification for the reports current in some quarters of a decline in tire prices.

...The United ...nment Com- ...y, who are ...n their carni- ...for the w... ...t week in con- nection with the Legion's convention, will arrive in town on Monday. This company comes highly recommended as giving plenty of good wholesome fun, and should prove a great drawing card.

The matter of the dances has been put entirely in the hands of Mr. Jas. Quirk. Wednesday night there will be two dances, both the Lyceum and the newly renovated Holder's Hall being used for this purpose. Quirk's orchestra will play in one place and another orchestra, probably Houghton's of Olean, in the other. On Thursday night, following the fantastic parade, a dance will conclude the festivities. Soldiers in uniform will be admitted free to all dances.

A contract has been signed with F. A. W. Dean of Alliance, Ohio, to take care of street decorations. Mr. Dean is a master in his line and has done work in this section before, notably at Coupersport. He will bring ample equipment to make streets and buildings "blossom like the rose," and also a good supply of masquerade costumes suitable for Thursday evening's fantastic parade for rent at a moderate cost. Undoubtedly the first of the week will see him on hand and at work with his helpers.

The program for the two days is appended, and it is hoped that all citizens will keep their copy in order to be fully informed at all times as to what is taking place at every minute:
